During the last macOS upgrade or file migration, some of your files couldn't be moved to their new locations. This folder contains these files.

Configuration files

These configuration files were modified or customised by you, by another user or by an app. The modifications are incompatible with the recent macOS upgrade. The modified files are in the Configuration folder, organised in subfolders named after their original locations.

To restore any of the custom configurations, compare your modifications with the configuration changes made during the macOS upgrade and combine them when possible.